GEN. BRALE DEAD.

Gen. E. F. Beale died this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. It was understood early in the day that he could not possibly recover and at 2 o'clock his condition was such that his death was expected at almost any moment. When the end came it was peaceful and without a struggle.

Gen. Beale's house that Gen. Grant made his home when visiting this city after his trip around the world.

ROYAL SILVER WEDDING.

Auniversary of King Humbert's Marriage. Rome, April 22.—The fetes in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of King Humbert and Queen Margherita are being continued today. As the day is the actual anniversary of the marriage, which occurred April 22, 1868, the festivities are at their height. The weather is most favorable, and the bright sunshine adds to the brilliancy of the spectacle. The public offices and schools throughout the country are closed, the streets are gaily be-decked and immense crowds throng the vicinity of the Quarand, of the Quirin d.

King illumbert and Queen Margherita heard mass today in their private chapel. Their majestics received telegrams of congratulation from the Prince of Waies and from Queen Victoria and all the other sovereigns of Europe.

The German emperor and empress drove to the Church of San Pietro in Montorie, erected in the year 1500 for Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain, on the spot where St. Peter is said to have suffered martyrdom. They returned to the Quirinal by the fashionable and well-shaded drive called the Pincio, and were what the future policy of the treasury may be regarding finances is still a matter of conjecture and probably will be, for a definite course has not been decided upon. The department will wait for developments, and as the emergencies arise it is believed that the department will be fully able to meet them. The administration feels confident that the present financial furry is a temporary one, based on an exaggeration of conditions, and they have no fear that there will be a panic or that the national credit will be impeached.

St. Louis, April 22.—Max Judd, consul general prospective at Vienna, is a little disturbed by the report that Count Kalmoky, the Austrian premier, had refused to accept his credentials.

The cablegram stated that the premier had given notice to the American minister, Fred first, that the Austrian government would not grant an exequatur to Mr. Judd because of his former Austrian allegiance. Mr. Judd is quoted as saying that if the Austrian government offers any objection to his appointment ment offers any objection to his appointment he will tender his resignation to President Cleveland at once and save further trouble.

DIFFERENCES OF OFINION. The most reliable information as to the posttion of the President and Mr. Carlisle and what to follow this course and keep the gold reserve intact. As far as his interpretation of the law is concerned he was upheld in his opinion by Secretary Gresham and Attorney General Oiney. At the same time President Cleveland pointed out that there was nothing which compelled the government to keep the gold reserve in its entirety except for the redemption of the legal tender notes. It then became not a question of law notes. It then became not a question of law and discretion, but of policy, and it was finally decided that the gold reserve should be utilized to meet the demand for gold shipment. It is said that the administration was led Such a policy, if followed out, might produce a sentiment in support of the President's known, anti-silver views. The President's known, and, feels confident that there is no danger in the situation, and that if the workings of the silver law were allowed to eat into the gold reserve that the chances for the repeal of the Sherman act would be much greater. This was the policy decided on as the best one to pursue and the stories of any

Mr. O. O. Stealey last night telegraphed to the Louisville Courier-Journal as follows:

"Wall street made a big play today and took all of the free gold out of the treasury. Still the government at Washington lives and there is no danger of a panic or a financial crash that will hurt the people. If one should come the New York sharks would hold the bot end of the poker. The cabinet meeting today lasted three hours and the utmost harmony prevailed. The whole financial situation was carefully gone over and fully discussed. The only thing definitely settled was that Sherman notes of 1890 would not be paid in silver, but gold coin. The reserve fund of $100,000,000 will be used, or so much of it as necessary, to tide over the present emergency, Wall street will be watched closely next week and if it pursues its present course to embarrass the treasury, definite action will be taken by the government to prevent any discredit of its money abroad. The only fear here is that the bold game being played by the Wall street speculators will affect American securities in Europe and bring bonds here for gold. The government will not borrow gold and pay a premium upon it until it is forced to do so by the gravity of the situation. That is to say that a bond issue will be made ouly as a last resort. Secretary Carlisle is still firm against issuing bonds and thinks that he will get more gold next week than he will pay out. The fact that all of the free gold was exhausted from the treasury today and yet caused no financial disturbance in the money market is regarded as a good sign.

If it was only a question of issuing fifty million 4 per cent bonds, that might be done to bridge over the temporary trouble, but it is not. That which is worrying the administration is that if Wall street can force the government to issue bonds now why can it not drain the treasury of gold whenever it cares to, and thereby keep the government issuing bonds commences, where is it going to stop? That is the perplexing question."
